Artificial Intelligence in Medicine: Joint European Conference on Artificial Intelligence in Medicine and Medical Decision Making, AIMDM'99, Aalborg, ... (Lecture Notes in Computer Science)

The European Societies for Artificial Intelligence in Medicine (AIME) and Medical Decision Making (ESMDM) were both established in 1986. A major activity of both these societies has been a series of international conferences, held bi-annually over the last 13 years. In the year 1999 the two societies organized a joint conference for the first time. It took place from June 20{24th, 1999 in Aalborg, Denmark. This "Joint European Conference on Artificial Intelligence in Medicine and Medical Decision Making (AIMDM'99)" was the seventh conference for each of the two societies. This conference follows the AIME conferences held in Marseilles (1987), London (1989), Maastricht (1991), Munich (1993), Pavia (1995), and Grenoble (1997). Previous ESMDM conferences have been held in Leiden (1986), Copenhagen (1988), Glasgow (1990), Marburg (1992), Lille (1994), and Torino (1996). The AIMDM conference is the major forum for the presentation and discussion of new ideas in the areas of Artificial Intelligence and Medical Decision Making in Medicine. This fulfills the aims of both societies. The aims of AIME are to foster fundamental and applied research in the application of Artificial Intelligence (AI) techniques to medical care and medical research, and to provide a forum for reporting significant results achieved. ESMDM's aims are to promote research and training in medical decision-making, and to provide a forum for circulating ideas and programs of related interest. In the AIMDM'99 conference announcement, authors were encouraged to submit original contributions to the development of theory, techniques, and applications of both AI in medicine (AIM) and medical decision making (MDM).
