CUTTER'S GROVE Patrick Dakin

Stranded on a lonely backroad in the California desert one night, Lucas Tunney sees a terrifying vision of a young girl outside his Jeep's window. Is it his imagination? He's not sure.

A few weeks later, in the nearby town of Cutter's Grove, Lucas is told about the mysterious disappearance of a girl that took place a year earlier. Shown her picture Lucas sees a beautiful child with long, shiny black hair and an angelic smile.

She looks nothing like the ruined creature he saw in the desert.

But there is absolutely no doubt in his mind ... it's her.

Now he's faced with the problem of what to do with this knowledge. If he goes to the authorities and starts expounding about a ghost sighting he'll be locked up for sure, based on irrefutable evidence of insanity. It seems he has little choice - he has to try to determine the girl's fate on his own and, in the process, learn who might have been responsible.

AMAZON READER REVIEWS:

"I would definitely recommend this book, even to those who might normally shy away from ghost stories."

"Patrick Dakin takes the reader on a wild ride of paranormal, romance, crime, suspicion, all in the backdrop of a seemingly sleepy little town. I loved it and was guessing to the end."

"Once again, Patrick Dakin delivers. Love this author and loved this book."

"Awesome book!! This is the best mystery I've read in a long, long time!!"

"I got this book by Patrick Dakin because I had just finished his brilliant Deathbed Confession. This book is also excellent and so very different from the other, which shows just how talented the author is."

"Full of action, suspense, murder, love, jealousy, etc . A great joy reading and hard to put down. Great ending!"

"This book started out reminding me of Stephen King's style somewhat - this guy can write."

"The mental imagery is amazing."
